Biodynamic

Biodynamic farming also instructs followers to use certain fertilization practices. One of particular interest is filling cow horns with compost, burying them in the vineyard, and digging them up later. Because most biodynamic farmers also employ organic practices like avoiding pesticides, and depend on compost rather than chemical fertilizer, many biodynamic wines are also organic in practice

Organic

Organic wine is a wine produced from grapes grown in accordance with principles of organic farming. Therefore, organic winemaking excludes the use of pesticides, fungicides, herbicides, and artificial chemical fertilizers. Organic winemaking has to meet strict legal requirements involving pesticide use, land management, preservation and storage
